The Business Imperative

Email is a mission critical application that is under continuous attack from a barrage of Spam messages. Embedded within the stream of relatively harmless Spam are sophisticated phishing exploits, spyware bots and viruses. Unfiltered volumes of Spam not only impact network/mail server performance, annoy users and impact productivity, but also harbor targeted attacks intended to steal information, goods or services. In addition, businesses can face legal challenges from employees or customers for damages from fraud, inappropriate content or failures to meet regulatory mandates. Understanding the challenges and the business impacts are the first step in implementing an effective email security strategy.

The Building Blocks of a Best-in-Class Antispam Solution

Best-in-class antispam and antivirus protection requires a comprehensive set of capabilities in order to meet and to maintain business requirements. Solutions must enable turn-key deployment in existing mail server configurations and provide flexible scalability and high-availability. Accurate detection requires the use of multiple scanning technologies combined with an integrated suite of security services to protect against a broad range of spam, viruses, worms, trojans, spyware and other malware. The automated delivery of updates developed by dedicated security research teams who continuously maintain spam databases and antivirus signatures ensures the highest level of accuracy and protection. Finally, powerful tools to manage email archiving and auditing are needed to minimize legal exposures and to meet/maintain regulatory compliance requirements.

Hawaiian Airlines

"We needed comprehensive security protection, which we found with Fortinet. We felt that Fortinet offered us the best solution to meet our needs while also being cost-effective.

Since deploying the Fortinet solution, we've cut down about 95,000 spam emails per week across our corporate network."

FortiGate™ and FortiMail™ Integrated Hardware, Software and Services

Fortinet's family of FortiGate and FortiMail appliances provides the latest in advanced antispam and antivirus technology. FortiGate supplies a combination of antispam protection along with full Unified Threat Management (UTM) capabilities, while FortiMail supports multiple modes of operation that allow integration into a broad range of mail environments. FortiMail appliances are able to deliver the highest level of antispam protection by using multi-layered spam engines to detect, tag, quarantine and block spam messages and their malicious attachments. Unlike an array of point-product solutions, FortiMail is a cost-effective integrated appliance that is easy to deploy and operate. FortiAnalyzer™ products provide system-wide antispam/antivirus event logging, comprehensive reporting and scheduled report generation. Integrating both FortiGate and FortiMail units together in a network environment provides the most comprehensive security solution available today.
